New to both Sarasota and Holcomb-Kreithen Plastic Surgery and Dermatology, Dr. Shauntell Solomon is excited to dive right in and help patients feel refreshed and rejuvenated. A new product they just started to use is a skincare line named DefenAge. As Dr. Solomon explains, this topical skincare line has highly specific peptides that target and activate stem cells in your hair follicles that are dormant, waking them up and resulting in beautiful, fresh skin. "Every year, we are trying to evolve with dermatology. DefenAge is the newest, latest and greatest that is out there." Along with staying up on the current trends of products and skincare, Dr. Solomon is also skilled to go beyond the surface; trained and certified to provide skin cancer screenings to clients. This makes Holcomb-Kreithen Plastic Surgery and Dermatology a one-stop shop for all your needs including but not limited to plastic surgery for the entire body, cosmetic laser surgery, dermatology and now cancer screenings. "We really take care of the patient as a whole." Dr. Solomon recalls a time that she had a patient tear their pants on a chair at her practice, and a spot on their leg was exposed. With her experience, she was able to assure them that it wasn't just a small spot the patient insisted it was. After a biopsy, it was concluded to be melanoma. With experience like this, Holcomb-Kreithen Plastic Surgery and Dermatology only strengthens their portfolio and ensures all patients can be taken care of wholly under one roof.
